It was a sunny day. Helen went to the sea to swim. Suddenly she noticed that the shore was far away! She called for help, but no one could hear her. She was getting tired, but then something lifted Helen out of the water. When she looked down, she saw a dolphin helping her. The dolphin helped her get back to the shore. It was a perfect ride. Helen thanked the dolphin that saved her. But Helen was sad that her friend hadn't come to play today. She went back to her house and went on a boat ride with her parents.

This summer I went to Ireland and I had <sup>of</sup> a very unusual day for me because it was the first day I was going somewhere by plane.

I was very excited about it because it was my dream since the childhood. In spring my teacher told me that we have <sup>of</sup> the opportunity <sup>to study,</sup> of flying to Ireland. <sup>had</sup> I said my mother about it and she agreed. We bought tickets and started preparing for the trip. I was stressed because I thought I <sup>of</sup> <sup>was</sup> afraid of flying but my mother said that everything <sup>will</sup> be fine. <sup>would</sup> <sup>of</sup>

So, the day we went to the airport, <sup>my mother</sup> I was shocked. ~~It~~ was so large, I didn't expect that. After a while it was the time to get on our plane.

We got to Ireland and everything was great. Now I know, that I don't need to <sup>lex</sup> afraid of it and it's very <sup>opp.</sup> entertaining. I hope I'll go somewhere by plane one more time!

A spectacular story happened to me during the summer holidays. It happened when I was in the summer camp with my volleyball team, but we'll only focus on my two friends: Vanya and Lev. We were coming back from a training, while some workers were chopping down trees. It turned out that on one of the trees was a bee hive, and we attracted it. The bees were chasing us to our rooms and we were running for our lives. Good for me, I wasn't stung but Lev was. In the end, we got into our room and escaped from the bees. The whole chase was fun, but also frightening. The lesson I learned is that you don't go near trees that are being chopped down.

"A bird may be known by its song" is a proverb that not many people use nowadays. By itself, the proverb talks about individuality, or to be more specific, what actions define a person as an individual. Every person out there has a unique charm that they can only share with the world only by putting themselves out of their comfort zone into the spotlight.

In order to cement my explanation, I'll give you a little story about a guy who, in my opinion, matches this proverb pretty well! Daniel Eleison was my friend who liked cooking very much. But since the school he studied in was catholic, his little hobby was met with ostracization from his classmates. They weren't used to a male being the cook in the house. It was seen as "weird" and "girly". But he didn't listen to their insults. He continued learning how to cook while simultaneously ignoring the bullies, which led to him becoming an incredible chef in just three years!

In conclusion: do what you love and be yourself. You are unique – do not let anyone ever dull your enthusiasm for the things you like to do.

A proverb "A bird may be known by its song" means that people are recognized and judged by the way they speak, act and behave. Just as every bird has its own unique song, every person has their own manner of expressing themselves, which reflects their true character.

I understand this proverb as a reminder that our words and action reveal who we really are, more than our appearance or status. For example, a person who constantly complains or speaks unkindly shows negativity, while someone who speaks politely and encourage others demonstrates kindness and wisdom.

From my personal experience, I once had a classmate who looked very serious and distant at first. However, when he started to talk, I realized he was friendly and helpful. His "song", or the way he expressed himself, changed my impression completely. Another example is from famous leaders: people often remember not only what they achieved, but also how they spoke to their followers.

In conclusion, this proverb teach us that true character is revealed in every day communication and behavior.

How do I understand the proverb? I understand it in the meaning of everyone being unique and individual thanks to something outstanding all of us did. Our seeds make our character, our song is our life, it's a long composition, but it's a colorful and interesting one, no matter whose it is. For example, even I leave a certain trace in my life, sing my songs and people listen to it! When I draw, when my work is complete, I share it with other people, ask for it to be criticized. This is how I spread my song. As in continuation of this example, my friends do exactly the same! Their song can be about different things, some of them write, some of them draw just like me, but in their own, all of us have a known, unique songs which make each and everyone of us individual! This is what makes us humans.

In conclusion, I would like to say that I think I proved my point. "A bird may be known by its song" - that's why everyone is unique. We sing our own song, which differs us from everyone else. Humans are everything!
